Case Studies

Mako Steel

Mako Steel, based in Carlsbad, CA, is one of the leading builders of self-storage facilities in the U.S. In 2018, the three owners of the company decided they wanted to explore the sale of a portion of their company. The team at Waypoint worked with management to prepare the offering materials, then presented the opportunity to over 500 private equity firms. Following numerous conversations and meetings with interested firms, the owners decided to sign an LOI with New State Capital Partners, a New York-based private equity firm. After the LOI was signed, Waypoint continued to work with Mako through the due diligence and legal documentation processes to ensure the deal stayed on track. The sale closed in 2019 and all three owners remained with the company. Following the sale, Mako bolstered their management team, opened regional sales offices, and in 2021 completed the acquisition of an East Coast competitor, Rabco Enterprises. The combined entity is now the largest builder in the self-storage industry.

Let's Play Sports

Let's Play Sports is the largest independent owner and operator of indoor sports facilities in the U.S. The Company, which started with a single facility in 1986, completed 11 acquisitions and now manages 25 facilities across 10 states. As the Company grew, they financed their acquisitions and facilities with numerous financial institutions with widely differing terms and loan covenants. Management determined that they needed to consolidate their loans if they were going to continue their growth. After failing to complete a refinance of their debt on their own, the Company engaged Waypoint to help them source and negotiate the debt. Waypoint prepared a financial model and analysis to accompany the offering memo and presented the opportunity to over 50 large financial institutions. Ultimately, Waypoint helped the Company negotiate a $22 million refinancing which consolidated the loans of 10 regional lenders into a lower cost facility that increased the cash flow of Let's Play Sports by over $700,000 annually.
